

International Bachelor History

Erasmus University Rotterdam is the first university in the Netherlands to offer an International Bachelor in History (IBHistory). This programme takes a unique approach: how history shapes present-day societies and international relations. Modern history since the 18th century is at the core of the programme. Globalisation is an important aspect of modern history, stimulating us to trace and reflect upon changes in economy, society, and culture, both within and beyond national borders. In this programme, you will acquire a thorough understanding of how changes and continuities in the past influence our daily lives and learn to explain the crucial connection between past and present.

Courses open to exchange students 2016/2017

Fall semester

- Economic Crises
- Economic History and International Relations
- Erasmus and Grotius: Two Great Humanists
- Historical Representation and Imagination
- International Business and Nation-State
- Social and Cultural History
- Total War

Summer semester

- Capital and Inequality
- Emerging Economies and Global Labour
- Migration, Citizenship and Identity in Global History
- Popular Culture, War and Historical Games
- Religion, Culture and Global Encounters
- Representing War between 'Experience' and Gaming
- Urban History: the Case of Rotterdam

All courses are 7.5 ECTS. Check the website for course descriptions. Please note that this is a concept list.

Other courses for exchange students

Exchange students can attend courses outside the International Bachelor of Arts and Culture Studies program:

- Arts and Culture Studies
- Philosophy
- Communication and Media
- Public Administration
- International Business Administration
- Sociology
- Pedagogics

More information

More information about the exchange program can be found on our website.